PLANT-BASED BURRATA WITH BEETROOT & ROCKET SALAD

Chef Gary Parsons

Ingredients

SERVES 1

VE004 Julienne Bruno, Burrata	1 ball
HS001 Harvey & Brockless Kitchen
Pomegrante & Beetroot Dressing	15ml
DA105 Dell'ami Arbequina, Olive Oil	5ml
IN165 Cornish Sea Salt	0.5g
Beetroot, grated and cooked	20g
Rocket, washed and dried	5g
Black Pepper, cracked	0.5g

Method

1. Add the grated beetroot into a bowl and pour 10ml of the pomegrante and beetroot dressing and give it a good mix, season well with salt and pepper.
2. Carefully remove the burratta from the pot and with a large spoon and place it onto a cloth to dry.
3. Spoon the beetroot onto a plate and place the burratta on top, with some rocket. Finish off with drizzling the rest of the pomegrante and beetroot dressing and olive oil.

PLANT-BASED BURRATA SALAD

with Harvey & Brockless Kitchen Pomegranate and Beetroot Dressing

Juilenne Bruno Burrella ball

A firm bite with a delicate creamy interior. Naturally plant-based but tastes like the real thing. Best served cold and handled with care. Perfect for salads or simply enjoyed on its own.

Harvey and Brockless Kitchen Pomegrante & Beetroot Dressing

A combination of sweetness from the pomegrante and a warmth from the dijon mustard, creates a perfect tangy dressing for any salad.

Dell'ami Arbequnia Olive Oil

Sourced from the sunny valleys of Córdoba in Andalucía, early harvest Arbequina olives give this oil glorious flavours of green apple, artichoke and creamy avocado.

Cornish Sea Salt Flakes

A pebble's throw from the Atlantic Ocean, the salt house that produces Cornish Sea Salt uses pure sea water from a protected marine zone, which is high in trace elements. It's this purity that gives the salt its fresh flavour and makes it so popular with chefs. Add a sprinkle to chocolate brownies to elevate them to new levels.
